Iron Maiden have announced their 2006 World Tour will make two stops in the tri-state area October 12 at Nassau Coliseum and October 13 at Continental Airlines Arena. The tour follows the release of the group's highly anticipated new studio album A Matter Of Life And Death, due out on September 5th on Sanctuary Records.

"This is the first time we've started a tour in the States for many, many years," says Bruce Dickinson. "It's going to be great to get out there so the fans can get to hear the new material and see the new show first for a change. We fully intend to make it as spectacular and memorable as we can."

The upcoming North American dates represent the beginning of the "A Matter of Life and Death World Tour," which will continue into Japan and Europe, winding up in London. Accompanying Iron Maiden are new UK metal sensation, Bullet for My Valentine, who have been receiving rave reviews while on tour with Guns N' Roses throughout Europe.
